Is "Great Industrial College" a Fake? | Dr. Crippen Tells His Story to the Jury

CRIPPEN, UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION ADMITS HE FEARED ARREST BECAUSE OF HIS WIFE'S SUDDEN DISAPPEARANCE

Notorious Doctor Spends Whole Day in Witness Box Under Gruelling Cross Examination by Counsel for Crown—Laughs When Admitting Letters Telling of His Wife's Death in America Were All Lies.

(Canadian Associated Press)

London, Oct. 21.—Chief Justice Alverstone on taking his seat this morning found a note from the foreman of the Crippen jury requesting that the jury examine under a microscope the piece of marked skin which has so vital a bearing on the identity of the remains. This will be done in a room of the Chief Justice before counsel and physicians

Crippen in the dock, was cross-examined by Muir as follows:

"On February 1 you were left alone in the house with your wife?"

"Yes."

"Was she alive and well?" "Yes."

"Do you know of any person who has seen her alive since?"

"I do not."

"Or who has had a letter from her since?"

"I do not."

"Or who can prove that she left the house?"

"I have told you all the facts."

Crippen, who again complained of suffering from colds through drafts, spoke in quiet, and subdued, but matter-of-fact tones. He said he retired to his room and she to hers, she said, between two and three in the morning. He prepared her breakfast in the morning, as he usually did, she being a late riser. He got home at seven that evening and found his wife gone. He presumed she had carried out her threat of going off to America. He had made no inquiries as to her leaving either from cabmen, tradesmen or steamship agents, either then or since his arrest.

"It did not occur to me," he explained to his lordship. He did not know whether she had taken her trunk with her.

Answering Muir, he said that he made his wife no regular allowance but gave her what she asked for, up to four pounds. Questioned as to his wife's means, Crippen said that during a quarrel he asked her if she wanted any money, and she said she didn't. Crippen's explanation of his hurry to pawn his wife's jewels was that he had to pay cash for an advertising scheme.

"How long had you had that scheme in your mind?"

"About two months."

"And you needed money for it?"

"Yes."

"You told Inspector Dew in July that you had never pawned anything of your wife's. Have you forgotten it?"

"No. I did not consider it her property, as I had provided it."

"You told Dew that she had taken some jewelry with her."

"She had some rings and a watch which were hers before her marriage. I had given my wife 35 pounds to buy furs."

"Where do you suppose your wife got money to pay for the voyage to America?" Muir asked.

"She always had plenty of money. I did not give her any. She threatened to leave several times, but so far she has not carried them out."

"The complaint your wife made on the night of the dinner party was most unreasonable." "I think it was."

"Do you think it was sufficient to cause your wife to leave?"

"I think it evidently had been pending a long time."

"Had she any other cause for leaving?"

"No other that I know of."

"When she left, you set about thinking how to cover up the scandal?" "Yes."

"It involved you a great deal of trouble?" "That has already been acknowledged."

Council handed Crippen a letter written on March 20th from Hilldrop Crescent which suggested Lenevе leaving Hilldrop Crescent. Crippen was not sure whether she was living there at the time, but she had been off and on. "She came to live with me shortly before Easter," he said.

By Chief Justice: "We had better fix those dates now."

Crippen said: "The first time she came to live with me was on February 2. From that time on she was with me two or three nights, perhaps more, each week." He did not like to say when she had come to stay permanently.

By Muir: "Mrs. Jackson fixed March 12 as the date Lenevе left her house."

Crippen: "I won't dispute that date."

"On the night of February 2 did Lenevе sleep at Hilldrop Crescent?" "She did."

Chief Justice: "You might press him on that for the reason."

"Are you sure of that?"

Crippen: "Yes."

Muir read a letter addressed to Martinnetti by Crippen on March 20, when Lenevе was living with him in which he said his wife was dangerously ill with pleuro-pneumonia, which was why she had not been to see them. J

Muir: "At the time you wrote that letter had you arranged to go to Dieppe with Lenevе for Easter?"

After a pause, Crippen said: "Yes, I had, I believe."

"Did you want to wipe your wife off the slate before you left?"

"There was no question of the kind. I have already explained my statement that it was necessary to say something to stop all inquiries."

"Did you want to announce your wife's death before starting on your holidays with Lenevе?"

Crippen: I do not think it follows as a logical sequence."

Questioned regarding his wife's friends, Crippen was asked whether he thought of the pain to them in connection with the announcement of her death and replied he did not think of them at all. Questioned re the return from Dieppe and whether he then wore mourning clothes he could not say whether he wore mourning clothes at that time, but he did afterwards.

"You had to play the part of a bereaved husband?" "Yes."

"Did you do it well?" Crippen (smiling): "I could not tell you."

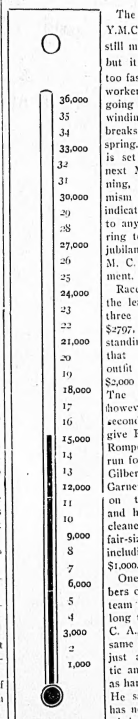

"When your wife's friends confided with you on the loss of your wife, did you do it well?" "That's a question you should ask them, I cannot say."

"In a letter you wrote Mrs. Burroughs, you said you were nearly out of your mind owing to poor Belle's death. "That," said counsel, "was

CLOCK CAN'T MOVE TOO FAST TO SUIT Y.M.C.A. WORKERS

C. E. Race's Team Now Leads for Three Day's Work, With Total of Nearly Three Thousand

The hand on the Y.M.C.A. clock is still moving round, but it can't move too fast to suit the workers. They are going to keep winding it, if it breaks the main spring. The alarm is set to go off next Monday evening, and if optimism and general indications amount to anything it will ring to cheers of jubilancy in the Y. M. C. A. encampment.

Race's team is in the lead for the three days with $4797, notwithstanding the fact that Marshall's outfit corralled a $2000 subscription. The latter team, however, is a close second, and will give Race's Realty Rompers a hard run for the honors. Gilbert's Good Garners are also on the warpath and have already cleaned up a few fair-sized pledges, including one for $1,000.

One of the members of Marshall's team does not belong to the Y. M. C. A., but at the same time he is just as enthusiastic and works just as hard as the res He says that he has not been turned down once, and that he finds it a pleasure to work for the Y. M. C. A.

The expectations for today amount to $5,000, which will bring the total up to nearly $20,000, leaving $16,000 to be collected in the last two days, Saturday and Monday. On these two days, especially Monday, a concentration of forces will take place and a front, rear and flank attack will be made, which will be unresistable in its force.

The campaign is suffering from a lack of workers, and great credit is due to the small army which have accomplished so much in the first part of the week. However, the small subscriptions are only tapped and great things are expected from this source.

When the results of the day's work were turned in at the Y.M.C.A. supper last night it was found that $4,001 more had been added to the fund. This amount was not as large as had been expected, but the chief of the campaign, Mr. Ward, said that he thought the workers had done exceedingly well and that it was a well known thing that the middle days of the campaign were not as good as the first and the last. This, he said, had been proved by two that had been conducted in the city before. The following is the result of the team: Butchart, $332; Dingle $150; Gilbert, $1155; Hutton, $345; Kenway, $100; Marshall $785; McLeod $193 and Race $641. Total $4,001.

The Rev. Robt. Pearson, who was at the supper, said a few words of encouragement to the workers. There was no better investment than the Y. M.C.A., he said, for men who are interested in the welfare of the city. People often asked why the Y.M.C.A. couldn't be self-supporting. The reason was the low fees that were charged in order to enable those of small means to benefit by it. The influence of the association in university and college life was wonderful. Universities have often been called Godless until the Y.M.C.A. made its way in and improved the tone 50 per cent. This was the case with the Toronto university, he said.

"GREAT INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE" PROMOTER PROVES A FAKE; POLICE LOOKING FOR HIM

Man With the Five Million Dollar Proposition Leaves Town With Board Bills Unpaid—Real Estate Men Spent Quite a Lot of Money on Him and Get Nothing for Their Pains.

Worked Same Game in Great Falls, Montana, and Minneapolis—Daily Capital Received Letter from Pittsburg Chief of Police Saying College is Figment of the Imagination.

Did you buy any shares in the Great American Industrial College company. If you did you are going to lose your money?

The Great Industrial College has "fizzed out" and the police are looking for the promoter, Professor E. Ewin S. Davin, who was in the city a few weeks ago with an immense proposition for the erection of a college outside Edmonton and a large building containing a theatre, cafe, swimming pools and executive offices on Jasper Avenue.

On October 4th he arrived in Edmonton and went to stay at a rooming house on First street. From that moment he got busy and the next morning he was interviewed by a Capital reporter who obtained from him a long story of a five million dollar industrial school that a group of Pittsburg capitalists were going to erect in the city.

The scheme looked good to many people around the city and several real estate men took up the matter and acted for him. They took him around the town showing him property and invited him to lunch and dinner and in every way treated him with great hospitality for which one man reckons that he is out of pocket $125.

Davin produced plans of his college for inspection and after a while in company with a real estate man he went to the city commissioners to obtain permission to put up a temporary structure within the first class fire limits. The Commissioners evidently saw through the scheme and turned the matter over to the chief of police who set a watch over him.

During this time Davin was still at the rooming house on First street and was employing his morning in the east end looking over property. He went to householders on Cliff and Cameron streets several mornings, and spent the time putting up a big talk about his college and measuring the property to see if it was large enough. The Daily Capital, when there did not seem to be any further developments, began to get suspicions as to the bona fides of the man and wrote to the chief of police at Pittsburg. Two weeks after they received the following letter:

October 10, 1910.

The Edmonton Daily Capital,
Edmonton, Alta.

Dear Sir,—Regarding the Great American Industrial College, an investigation shows it to be a figment of the imagination, put forward by a man who is unknown in Pittsburg. He is either a crank or a criminal promoter, with the same proposition was reported to us by some small Western city, with the same press agent story.

While we have no grounds to prosecute him there and have received no out of town complaints regarding any money transactions, we believe he is worthy of police investigation wherever found. I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,
.... THOS. A. McQUAIDE.
Supt. Bureau of Police.

Although he was rather an expensive item to a number of people around the city he did not make much for himself. In fact all that he seems to have done was to leave without paying his board bills. He left the rooming house on First street and went to the Waverly hotel where he stayed until he left. At the rooming house instead of paying his rent he gave a note to the landlady for ten dollars for ten days on the Molson's bank, which of course has came due and has not been met. The landlady at the same time kept a telescope grip belonging to him containing a mortar and gown and some other odds and ends of clothing and some papers.

This grip is hardly worth the $10 that he owes her. At the Waverly he stayed for two days and paid this bill in advance. He never came to the great bluff which must be supposed was his real means of making money: The application for stock, of which the following is a copy.

APPLICATION:

No. ——— 1910

The Great American Industrial College Company.

St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn.

I herewith subscribe for ——— shares of stock in the Great American Industrial College Company, at ten cents per share (par value 25 cents), payable as follows: $——— cash, and balance in three equal payments, payable monthly thereafter from date hereof.

Name ———

Address ———

No complaints have been received as yet by the police from people who have bought stock and have not received the certificates, so it is to be concluded that he was not clever enough to find anyone easy enough to buy.

At the police station there is a collection of his papers including some envelopes with his photograph in a cap and gown on them advertising the Great American Industrial College and a prospectus of a company which calls itself The Davin Christian Industrial College Company Ltd., incorporated with a capital of $5,000,000. The officials are as follows:

President, H. Ewin S. Davin.
Vice-president, S. L. Seguin.
Secretary-treas., P. A. Seguin.
Board, H. Ewin S. Davin, P. A. Seguin, S. L. Seguin.

The address given is 1895 Waltham Avenue, Merriam Park, St. Paul, Min.

The police communicated with the chief of police at Great Falls, Montana, and received a telegram in reply stating that the man Davin was a "Dead Goat" and that he had left the town owing $35 for board and lodging and also a bill for printing.

From the police at St. Paul the local police also received a wire stating that Davin was a "fake."

While in town here Davin employed a draughtsman to draw him a large scale plan of the college, about four feet long. This plan took some time to make and the price of it was $30. The draughtsman is therefore $30 out of pocket.

That Davin came here from Great Falls is shown by some of his papers which bear the date of Great Falls, Montana, September 10, 1010.

Last Saturday he told the real estate men, who by this time were beginning to be suspicious, that he was going away for a while but would be back soon, and that is the last that they saw of him. He has never come back again and the police have no information as to where he is. They unfortunately lost sight of him last week and during that time he must have left the city.

A search by the Capital on Bradstreets revealed the fact that there was no such firm as the Great American Industrial College registered.

Among his papers were found a number of notes concerning the college, prospectuses, and schemes for the laying out of the buildings, classes and etc. Throughout the papers there are a number of expressions used which showed that he was a religious man or at any rate pretended to be. The following is a short account of his life written by himself which was found in his grip:

Great Rush of Property Holders to Get the Full Discount On Taxes.

MANY PAID BY MAIL

Expected That Great Pile of Letters Contains One Hundred Thousand Dollars.

The last day for discount usually contributes to a busy time at a tax office, and yesterday's experience at the city assessor's office proved no exception. From the time the office opened until it closed crowds of property-owners filled the small space allotted for the public before the counter. The rush was so great that a novel system was finally decided on by the clerks in the collection of taxes. Checks were received, made payable to the city of Edmonton with the amount omitted, which will be filled in when time is found. The method is perfectly safe for both parties, and also of great mutual convenience.

It is estimated that $45,000 was taken over the counter yesterday, but there is still three days' mail to be opened and sorted, which will contain at least $100,000.

MR. POTTER'S REPORT.

Mr. Potter came to Edmonton primarily for the purpose of making a report on sewer construction. Mr Latornel had elaborated certain plans, but, in view of the large interests involved, wished to have these gone over by a consulting engineer of large reputation. Mr. Potter was called in and we now have a definite scheme before us, which may be carried out bit by bit, with the growth of population, up to the time that Edmonton has 250,000 people.

The method is unquestionably the proper one. The city is bound to become a large centre and all present undertakings should be organized in such a way that they can be expanded with growing needs, while at the same time each year's work will bear a definite relation to a general plan. Having come to the conclusion that Mr. Potter is as good a man as can be found to advise them in their work of sewer consiruction, the civic authorities should follow strictly along the lines that he indicates. Of course, even great experts are not infallible and conditions may change. But till actual experience shows that by adhering to his report, they are making a mistake, it is the policy of safety to accept his guidance.

There would be less hesitation about doing this, if Mr. Potter had not reported on our water as well as our sewer problem. Some time ago Mr. John Galt, who is undoubtedly the foremost Canadian engineer was asked to take this matter up. He reported strongly in favor of the Pigeon Lake gravity scheme. Mr. Owens, the sanitary engineer of the provincial government, who stands high in his profession, is also of the opinion that the city should look to the lake for its supply. Now Mr. Potter takes the opposite view. Who shall decide when doctors disagree?

The layman has to depend on those whose training makes their opinion worth while in connection with these matters and what is he going to do when they fail to register a definite verdict? The general effect will not be to inspire confidence in the engineering profession. A similar situation has existed in regard to a much greater undertaking, the Panama Canal. The engineering disputes to which it gave rise became so acute a year ago that to many it seemed a mistake to go on with such a costly work when no one could be absolutely sure that the principles followed were scientifically sound.

The upshot of Mr. Potter's report is that while his sewage plans, following along the lines of those prepared by our own thoroughly competent engineer, are not likely to be criticised to any extent, further investigation will have to be made in respect to the waterworks. One doesn't need to be an engineer to realize the advantages of the gravity system. Contamination may be guarded against much more effectively. With the settlement of the country up the river, there will never be a feeling of security in regard to the water taken from it. With a pumping plant, there is always the danger of some mechanical mishap taking place and causing all kinds of inconvenience and loss. Edmontonians do not need to have described to them just what a contingency means. Then we have the experience of other places which have tried the gravity system and are well pleased with it. The Capital certainly does not think that, with so much to be said in favor of the proposal and with the expert testimony that has been given to support these general considerations, it should be dropped entirely because Mr. Potter has reported as he has done.

Edmonton people who have endeavored to be guided by expert opinion in connection with the waterworks policy, will appreciate the difficulty of Mr. Justice Britton, who a week or so ago tried a case at Barrie, Ont., which turned on the question of the sanity of an old man. One set of medical experts went into the box and swore he was sane. Another set with equal claims to consideration, swore that he was crazy. Justice Britton finally grew tired of hearing what they had to say and adjourning the court, drove out to the old man's farm and had a talk with him. Judgment not having yet been delivered it remains to be seen what conclusion he reached. The point is that he had to trust to his ordinary powers of observation.

Edmonton believes that some day it will be as large as Winnipeg and its belief is well founded. Winnipeg has made certain provision for the breathing spaces in its central portions without which a great city suffers severely; Edmonton has made practically none. Winnipeg now has the population which Edmonton will have ten or at most fifteen years hence and the people there are now beginning to bemoan the mistake that was made when the city was Edmonton's present size in not providing more of these central parks. This being the case, what will be the lamentations of the people of Edmonton when this city is the equivalent of the Winnipeg of today? It's a pretty easy proposition to figure out. Are we going to do nothing and let things drift? Winnipeg proposes to seize the opportunity presented by the erection of new armories to see to it that they are surrounded by a sufficient amount of land to be useful for park purposes. Shouldn't Edmonton do the same?

CUBS NO MATCH FOR ATHLETICS

Beaten on Their Own Grounds by 12-5—Three Chicago Pitchers Were Pounded

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Philadelphia came out here yesterday and rubbed it in. The Athletics claimed their third successive victory of the world's championship series with the Cubs to the tune of 12 to 5, and if the big pennant is not nailed to the Quaker City mast tomorrow, Connie Mack will be the most surprised and astounded gentleman on the baseball map.

Captain Chance was ordered from the field in the third for disputing a decision.

In the three games played so far the easterners have pounded every assortment of curves which the entire galaxy of Cub pitchers could offer. Only "King" Cole, the so-called pitching find of the year, remains to be seriously considered by Manager Chance, and he has been held back because of his inexperience in a crucial game and a belief also that his assortment of shoots is just what the Mack men like.

The combat today was a slaughter. Big Ed. Ruelbach lasted just two innings, during which time he allowed one single, and two doubles, passed two batsmen and saw three runs cross the home plate.

How Runs Were Scored.

A pass to Strunk followed by Lord's sacrifice and Baker's single gave Philadelphia the initial run of the game.

Chicago came back with a counter in their half of the first. Sheckard walked and ambled to third on Schulte's double to centre. Hoffman's sacrifice fly sent Sheck scampering across the plate.

Two Each in Second.

Davis walked and reached second on Murphy's out, scoring a moment later on Barry's double to left field crowd. Coombes came through with a double and Barry scored. Ruelbach didn't look good and it was decided to derrick him at the end of the innings.

After Steinfeldt had popped out, Tinker doubled to right, taking third on Kling's out. Beaumont, batting for Ruelbach received a charity. A presentation to Sheckard filled the sacks. Schulte was there with the timely single, scoring Tinker and Beaumont. Hoffman fanned.

A Furious Fusilade.

The third innings was a heartbreaker for the home crowd. McIntyre, who replaced Ruelbach, was a mark for Connie's braves. Lord, first up, flied out. Rain started falling, but not enough to interfere with the play. Collins hit safely and scored when Baker hit through Schulte for three sacks. Davis was hit by pitcher and then Misther Murphy banged one on the beano for four sacks, chasing two runners in ahead of him. Fervent protestation by Mr. Chance and cohorts on the correctness of the home run, led to the peerless leader being banished and Jim Archer taking his place. The home run also resulted in Mr. McIntyre being chased from the game (by Chance). Pfeister, who now occupied the mound was hit for a single by Barry who scored when Tinker made a misplay on Thomas' grounder. A double play ended the agony.

The fourth, fifth and sixth stanzas were of the 1-2-3 order, neither side looking dangerous.

Catastrophe No. 2.

The lucky seventh was another nightmare for Chi. After Lord and Collins had been retired, Baker was safe on Steinfeldt's error, taking second on Davis' single. Tinker fumbled Murphy's grounder and the bases were filled. A double by Barry scored Davis and Baker while Thomas walked. Coombes singled over second, Murphy and Barry scoring.

Chicago Still Lives.

In the eighth Chicago got two counters. Sheck walked and Schulte flied out. Hoffman doubled and Archer fanned. A passed ball allowed Sheck and Hoffman to score. This was the last scoring of the game.

Philadelphia—Strunk, c.f.; Lord, l.f.; Collins, 2b; Baker, 3b; Davis, 1b; Murphy, r.f.; Barry, s.s.; Thomas c.; Coombes, p.

Chicago—Sheckard, l.f.; Schulte, r.f.; Hoffman, c.f.; Chance, 1b.; Zimmerman, 2b; Steinfeldt, 3b; Tinker, ss.; Kling, c.; Reulbach, p.

WHY NOT REINSTATE ALL ALBERTA HOCKEY PROS.?

Then the Proposed Provincial League Could Start Out with a Clean Slate

This winter should be a banner one for amateur hockey in the province of Alberta.

All the old teams will be in line to join the proposed amateur league, while several cities are organizing for the first time.

Lethbridge is building a new rink and t here will be at least two teams from that city. Red Deer is also in line with a new arena while F. C. Lowes promises to erect a rink in Calgary which will equal anything in the west. All the Calgary City League has to do to obtain the rink is to sign up an agreement to use it for five years.

There is no hardship in an agreement like that

Re-instate the Pros.

When the League holds its organization meting there is one thing to be considered and it should not be dismissed without a thorough threshing outll. That is the re-instatement of all the hockey professionals in the province.

This may sound like a very drastic measure but the Capital is certain it is the one means by which amateur hockey can be firmly established in Alberta.

In the province at present hockeyists are divided into amateurs semi-pros., and professionals. For the first and the last class we have a great admiration. They are men who have the courage to stand by their convictions and play under their true colors. For the semi-pros. we have no regard at all. They are the real black sheep of the hockey field, are generally non-residents of the city they are representing on the ice, and have done a great deal to harm the game.

A number of teams in the A. A. U. A. last winter played non-residents, a word which always suggests a semi-pro. Because when a hockey player leaves his own town to play hockey for a rival burgh, said player is not making the change for his health.

If hockey is to be put on an amateur basis, all professionalism however slight, should be eliminated. If everybody was re-instated at the beginning of the winter, then a good start could be made.

If the new hockey league secures competent officers, a close check could be kept on every club in the organization and at the least sign of professionalism, the offenders ruled out. The Ontario Hockey Association does this in a capable manner, so why cannot the Alberta League do the same?

If the League re-instated the professionals many valuable men would be added to its ranks. Jack Winchester, without doubt, the classiest goal tender in the west, is willing, if re-instated, to take an active part in the game. Harold Deeton, though his thoughts turn at present to curling, would be unable to resist chasing a puck, while McGannon, McKenney, Gordon and Bill Banford, Lynn, Kent, and Scotty Macleod are the best players in Northern Alberta and will be sadly missed if they are kept out of hockey this winter

A movement towards the whitewashing of the pros. is being started in Manitoba and will probably go through as Westerners are beginning to realize that the reign of professional hockey is not on the wane.

We offer the suggestion of a general rein-statment to the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association as the only means of putting amateur hockey on a sound basis in this province.

Murphy has the honor of making the first home run of the series. And the bases were not empty at the time, either.

Overall, Brown and Ruelbach can hold some interesting "experience meetings" during the cold winter months. Chairman, Connie Mack.

WHIT. RETURNS FROM NELSON

Had a Nice Visit with Lester Patrick, but Refuses to Talk Pro. Hockey

Fred Whitteroft arrived back last evening from Nelson, but when seen this morning by the Capital, declined to enter into exact particulars of his trip.

Whit has been giving F. C. Lowes of Calgary a few pointers about the proposed new Arena in Calgary, so Fred probably went to the coast to look over the Nelson rink which is a well-equipped one.

Whit stayed with Lester Patrick in Nelson, but did not see Brother Frank, who is in the East. From reports Newsy Lalonde is still in the hospital in Vancouver, but is almost entirely recovered now.

Asked if the Patricks were going to play in Renfrew this winter, Whit answered that they had had no word yet from the Millionaires, but they would be available if Bill O'Brien came through with the ante.

WORLD'S SERIES SQUIBS

Can it be the Athletics were "Stalling" in the recent series with the All American Stars? A handsome prize for every correct answer.

Rain fell softly during the last innings of the game but not so soft as the stilly silence which overspread the Chicago bleachers.

Athletics have scored 25 runs in the three games, Chicago, 9. Too bad Kling didn't lend his "powerful" arm to Messrs. Overall, Brown, Ruelbach et al.

Further nominations for the "Can't Come-back" club, Ed Ruelbach, McIntyre and Pfeister. The list is rapidly filling and will close this evening.

Can you imagine the fury of the Chicago populace when Frank Leroy Chance was escorted from the game in the terrible third? If words could kill——

On Monday Baker was the hitting Kid. Tuesday Eddie Collins did the automobile stunt, while yesterday Barry and Davis swung the bat with deadly accuracy.

The smile on Ban Johnson's expansive countenance last evening was strongly remeniscent of an electric sign. Bryan Bancroft always did love Murphy.

Athletics slaughter Cubs, Giants beat Highlanders, while Cincinnati wins from Cleveland. It is hard to dope out the respective strength of the two leagues.

Cub money was around town in plenty yesterday noon, but the Athletic supporters were satisfied to rest on their oars for one day. The most powerful telescope can detect no Chicago coin today.

WANTED—Five new baseball pitchers for season 1911. No old men need apply. Preference given to Indian Chief. Apply, F. L. Chance, care Chicago baseball club.

Philadelphia wine clerks have invenced a new cocktail, the Bender-Coombs. Three applications will make even the most-hardened Chicago fan climb a tree.

CALGARY WILL NOT PLAY HERE

Present Indications Are That There Will Be No Games for Belanger Cup

(Calgary Herald.)

"The present squabble between Calgary and Edmonton over when the game will be played in the north for the Belanger cup is in a sense ridiculous. It is impossible for the city league to postpone games to go to Edmonton and Edmonton realized this when the Y.M.C.A. played the first game in their city and agreed that the cup games would be played after the city championship was decided here. Regarding the decision of the provincial championship for the Belanger cup by the total number of points made by each team, Mr. Belanger may have a certain amount of authority, but then the Calgary city championship will not require his ruling. Mr. Belanger is all right but dictation of this sort given in the form of demand is not the kind Calgary has been used to and it don't go down with the boys here.

The Tigers and the Y. M. C. A. have decided to play on Saturday and if the former is successful that team will play Edmonton on Thanksgiving. If the Y. M. C. A. win Saturday's game it will mean another game to decide the city championship and that game will be played here before any trips are indulged in."

From the context of the above it appears as if Calgary are not coming up here. As the Edmonton Rugby club received no answers to their wires, they decided to drop negotiations with the southern city for the present.

LETHBRIDGE'S NEW RINK.

C. J. Eckstrom, president of the Western Canada Baseball league, is appearing in a new role. He has presented his home town, Lethbridge, with the site for a four-sheet curling rink.

SPOKANE FANS LIKE OUR LEAGUE

Are Ready to Admit Western Canada is Nearly as Fast as North Western

(Calgary News.)

"All the baseball fans in and around Spokane would like to see us start an international league up here."

This is the word brought back from the Washington city by Charlie Benjamin, director of the Calgary Baseball club, who has just returned from a visit to Spokane.

"They talk a lot of our Twilight league down there," he continued, "and all of them are ready to admit that we play almost as good a class of ball as their own Northwestern league. The big majority think that a league with Butte, Helena, and Great Falls would be the real thing, as the international end of the game would give baseball up here and also in the United States cities of the league an added interest."

Mr. Benjamin also met several business men from Butte and Helena while he was away, and was assured by every one of them that the international league would be a great drawing card.

"From what I have learned it would be a very easy matter to get this league started," he said, "and the talks I have had with responsible business men from the Montana cities have assured me that it would be in the best interests of baseball in this part of the world, as well as being a good thing financially."

MOOSE BAXTER'S BROTHER

Andy Baxter, brother of Moose, has been signed up by Bob Brown for next year's Vancouver team. Young Baxter played last year for the Hazlewood team in the Spokane city league. He led the league in batting, fielding and base-running; his batting average was .424.

CLOCK CAN'T MOVE

The captains of the teams had little to tell. Occasionally they were refused from selfish motives and more often by men who said that they simply couldn't afford to give, but the general opinion was that it was a real pleasure to go around canvassing among the business men of this city.

One rather amusing story was told of a man who refused to give because he said he had done something for the Y.M.C.A. four of five years ago, and it was now the turn of the other man. He seemed to be regarded, he said, as a bull's-eye for all the collections in the town. But he is going to get out for some project of his own in a few days and will round up all the men that have been bothering him during the past years.

One captain told how he chased one man for a long while without getting him, until at last he went to his house and sat there till he came in to supper, and then got a cheque for $100.

A QUERY FROM AFRICA.

Mr. W. J. Webster of the immigration hall received this morning a letter from Charles J. Liston Soulis, of Turflaagte, District of Lichtenburg, Transvaal, South Africa, enquiring as to conditions here in Canada for a prospective settler. His letter covers every point that could possibly interest an intending settler. He enquires as to the nature and fertility of the soil, the size of the land grants, the character and climate of the country, the duration of winter, price of labor, the crops raised and particularly the supply of water. He refers to his sojourn in South Africa in most discouraging tones, hoping that he can find some place where there will be ample returns for the amount of work and worry undergone. He does not state the exact difficulties encountered, but from the array of questions he puts one can surmise the bitter experiences that prompted him to put them.

His letter closes with the words: "I trust this letter finds you in a happier and more prosperous condition than yours truly."

The tone of the letter indicates that if conditions are as he hears of them, despite the distance, next spring will see him started on his journey practically half way round the world to build a new home in the virgin lands of Northwestern Canada.

CRIPPEN TRIAL

sheer hypocrisy."

Crippen: "It is already admitted."

Counsel quoted further from Crippen's letter which said he had received a cable announcing his wife's death which was most awful.

Crippen, smiling, and almost laughing, interrupted with, "I don't see why you should keep on questioning me as to this, which I have already admitted. I have told you they were lies."

To which the judge said, rather sternly: "That may be so, Mr. Crippen, but this is a very serious part of your case, and you must really answer the questions, lies or not."

Muir: "Then this awful shock was purely an imagination?" "It was entirely."

"How did you know your wife might not write to Dr. Burroughs?" "I did not think she would write to anybody."

"Because she told you to cover up the scandal?" "I only inferred she would not write."

"Do you ask the jury to believe that, not knowing but that your wife might not write to the Martinnettis or Burroughs, you told them she was dead?" "Yes."

"Where did you think she was?"

"In Chicago, with Bruce Millar."

Counsel then called attention to letters Crippen wrote to his relatives in America speaking of his wife's death, and asked how if his wife had gone to America he did not know she might call on her relatives. Crippen answered that if she had gone with another man he did not think she would face her relatives.

"There were," said counsel, "a very elaborate series of misrepresentations to a number of persons. For whose sake were you going into this elaborate process?" "For the sake of both of us."

"What did it matter?" "I did not wish my friends to think I had treated her badly, nor that she had left me."

"What were you to save yourself then, by telling these lies?" "The scandal of my acquaintances."

"What scandal was this separation from your wife, when you were living with Ethel Leneve?" "It was not so open as you seem to imagine."

"You had treated your wife well, given her money, for years had ceased to cohabit with her, then she had treated you with ingratitude and left you. Why seek to cover from scandal such a wife?" "I cannot explain in any other way what I have done."

Counsel then hastened on to the cellar of the Hilldrop Crescent house where the remains were found.

"You, of course know that these remains were found in the cellar?"

"I was told by my solicitor when I returned to England."

"As far as you know they could not have been put there while you were there.?"

"No."

"Will you say it was impossible?"

"I won't say it was impossible, because there were times during my absence in the daytime when my wife was also away."

Counsel next led Crippen to his departure from London. He said he had made up his mind to go away on July 9th, the morning that Inspector Dew called. He thought there were suspicions against the result of which he might be in jail for months till his wife was found.

"You really thought you would be arrested?" "Yes."

"Upon what charge?" "Suspicion."

"What crime did you anticipate you would be kept a prisoner for?" "I do not understand law enough to say. I have heard of people being arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the disappearance of other people."

Muir: "Disappearance of other people?" "I cannot put it in a legal phrase for you."

By judge—"Nobody wants a legal phrase."

Crippen—"I thought I would be held until the woman was found. If I could not produce the woman, Dew told me, I should be in serious trouble. I knew also it would put Miss Leneve in a serious position, and the only idea I could think of was to take her out of the country."

Muir—"When you said to Miss Curnow, 'If anything should happen, give these envelopes to Leneve,' had you made up your mind then?" "No."

"After that you went into the cellar with Dew and stood there. Was it after that you made up your mind?" "It was next morning after I had studied the whole matter over and I had consulted Miss Leneve as to what she would like to do."

"You thought you were in danger of arrest?" "That is so."

"And so you fled the country?" "Yes."

"In false names?" "Yes."

"Shaved off your moustache?" "Yes."

"Left off wearing your glasses in public?" "Yes."

"Took Miss Leneve with you?" "Yes."

"In a false name and passing as your son?" "Yes."

"You went to Antwerp and stayed in a hotel indoors all day?"

"Oh, no, we went about in the gardens."

"Did you enjoy yourselves?" "Certainly."

"And did you sign the register in a false name?" "I do not remember."

Muir then questioned Crippen about the circumstances surrounding his arrest by Dew on board the Montrose. Crippen said he was very surprised to see Dew at Father Point. At first he had not recognized him as he was dressed up as a pilot. Up to that time he had not thought what charge could be made against him and when Dew spoke he did not pay much attention as he was so confused at the time. He could not say, therefore whether Dew told him that he was arrested for murder or mutilation of his wife, Cora Crippen. Subsequently, he was cautioned by the Canadian police officer and charged with the crime.

By Muir—"Up to that time did you believe your wife was alive?" "I did."

"Did you put any question to Dew whether your wife had been found?"

"I put no questions at all, I made no reply."

DR. D. J. DUNN TO BE INSPECTOR OF HEALTH FOR CITY SCHOOLS

At the regular meeting of the school board held in the board rooms on Rice street last evening, Dr. D. J. Dunn was appointed medical inspector for the schools. The action comes as the result of the report of Dr. Biggar on the condition of the schools as to health presented to the special committee some weeks ago and read to the board at an irregular meeting held on Sept. 24.

Last night's meeting was called to order shortly after eight when Secretary Bradey read the minutes of the last regular and the two intervening special ones on Sept. 19 and 24. Immediately after hearing and approving the minutes, representatives from Quesnel and Spencer, the firm of contractors building the high school, were heard, asking for an extension of time for about six months. The contract calls for the completion of the building by Christmas, 1910, but the recent strike of the plasterers absolutely prevents the finishing work being proceeded with until next spring. The board assured the contractors that if they could only have use of the partly finished building the contract would be generously dealt with.

Dr. Smith, Dr. McDonald and Dr. Wells then spoke for the medical association, urging it on the board as the unanimous opinion of the medical body, that an inspection should be appointed at a fixed salary, to devote his whole time to the school work and that the regulations be cancelled requiring the inspector himself to treat cases where parents could not pay for treatment, it being understood that the city doctors would undertake to treat all such cases free of charge. The chief reason urged for the first point was that no competent medical man can satisfactorily inspect or examine a patient in the time necessarily allotted to each case by the action of the board. The board promised to consider their request.

Accounts to the extent of $109,-164.84 were met. A loan for current expenses from the Imperial Bank of Canada to the extent of $20,000 was approved. Tenders for hardware for the Seventeenth street school were awarded to Revillon Bros.

The report of Supt. McCaig was then submitted:

Edmonton City School Board:

Gentlemen—I have the honor to submit the following report for the month of September:

Attendance for the Edmonton schools: High school 175; Queen's ave., 420; McKay ave., 347; Alex. Taylor, 346; Norwood, 432; Peace avenue, 224; Westmount, 52; Sask. ave., 76; Second street, 21; Fraser's Flats, 62; Syndicate ave., 184; Norwood extension, 62; Belton, 40; total 2,441; average, 2,134.

Six new teachers have been set to work during the month—one in the high school and five in the public schools. The number in the public school work is now 55 regularly employed, besides three ocasional teachers, with an average of 41 pupils. The number of high school teachers is now six and the attendance 175. It is increasing daily. The number in the teaching and supervising staff is now 70. It will not likely be necessary to open any more rooms within the term, but some congestion will prevail in the Peace avenue school district until the opening of the new school.

The annual field day of sports on Oct. 7 was the most sucessful of the history of the shools from the standpoint of management, public interest and benefit to pupils. The committee are indebted to a number of friends for voluntary assistance in the furnishing of trophies. Respectfully submitted. (Signed) J. C. McCAIG.

The absence of one of the lady teachers for one week to attend the wedding of her sister was broached by Mr. Ramsay. The members of the board were for the most part of the opinion that a teacher who was off duty for other causes than illness should be the loser. Supt. McCaig stoutly maintained that in view of the faithful work and low remuneration of their teachers they could afford to be generous in such matter, but he was overruled and the young lady must pay her substitute.

Tenders for the buildings on McCauley avenue site were opened and read. The tendering was considerably brisker than that of a previous meeting. The offerings were made for the separate houses and were considered individually, the tender in every case going to the highest bidder. The total amount realized will be $3,396.

The election of the medical inspector for the schools then came up. The applications were opened and read when the board resolved itself into a committee of the whole to chose an inspector. The result of the ballotting was that Dr. D. G. Dunn was elected. The report of the committee was given and adopted.

In reference to this Mr. Cushing thought it wise to give out a public statement in this connection and with the board's approval addressed the following remarks to members of the press in attendance.

"The action of the board in appointing a medical inspector is taken after thorough consideration and after thorough consideration and after having the schools reported on by a competent physician. Conditions in the schools, acording to that report are very good. The repart was somewhat exhaustive, giving the percentages in the schools suffering from certain diseases. Dr. Biggar had nearly three months to make the report and did his work thoroughly. His opinion as a result of his enquiry was that it would not be necessary to engage a medical inspector to devote his whole time to the schools.

"In my mind, inspection does not necessarily involve a thorough examination," said he. "The latter is only necessary for a diagnosis and even then mistakes might be made. The duty of the inspector is merely to give his opinion as to the child's condition and to urge the parent to have the child thoroughly examined and treated by a physician."

It was announced that the medical report of Dr. Biggar will be made public in the course of a day or so.

The meeting did not adjourn until almost midnight.

CITY ASKS OLIVER TO INVESTIGATE

Interior Department if anything had occurred since application in January to interfere with our securing rights. Reply was that nothing had occurred to interfere. Party of engineers then organized and sent by city to secure data for compliance with the regulations. We have since learned that while the city was making preparations, private interests rushed party to set stakes first and are now seeking prior rights at Ottawa. Advisability to secure these rights for Alberta is obvious, city wants rights for people. We expect your strongest efforts opposing any scheme to deprive people of this natural resource by giving advantage to promoters. Please investigate and lyle energetic protest in name of Edmonton.
